FIND KIDNAPED OHIO BABY SLAIN

REARREST PATRIACA, TAKEN BACK TO CELL

For the first time since he was granted his extraordinary pardon by former Governor Charles F. Hurley and the executive council last December, Raymond L. S. Patriarca was back today in a cell.

He was placed again behind bars when he failed to furnish $10,000 bail in Brighton court, after pleading not guilty to charges of armed robbery at the Oxford Print in Allston and assault with a revolver with intent to kill two officials of that company.

Patriarca, storm center of the pardon racket probe, had been arrested again today as he left Middlesex superior court, where his counsel, Herbert F. Callahan, filed four pleas to abate, quash and dismiss two indictments charging him with auto theft and accessory.

As he and Callahan left the courtroom, where the pleas were down for arguments at 2 p. m., Patriarca was arrested by Special Officers Michael J. Cullinane and George Doherty of Brighton station.

They held a warrant charging him with participation in the hold-up of the Oxford Print in Commonwealth avenue, Allston, March 19, 1937.

Between the two officers, Patriarca, with a look of disgust on his face, was marched downstairs in East Cambridge courthouse and placed in a police car.

Then he was driven to Brighton court for arraignment.

In court, after Patriarca pleaded not guilty to charges of armed robbery and assault with a revolver with intent to murder William H. Perry, treasurer of the print company, and Henry B. Porter, president, Callahan made a vain plea for nominal bail of $2500.

Judge Cornelius J. Moynihan set bail at $10,000 single surety, if a registered bondsman, and double surety of an ordinary bondsman.

Patriarca then was taken to Charles street jail, in lieu of bail, and the habeas corpus writ was served there on him for his appear-

Tropical Storm Heads for N. E.

A severe tropical storm was moving toward New England from the Gulf of Mexico today, G. Harold Noyes, Boston weather bureau head, announced.

He said the storm was accompanied by extremely heavy rainfall, totaling in excess of three inches in some areas.

High winds were also reported from the storm center, according to the forecaster.

The Appalachian region generally would feel effects of the disturbance, but Boston might escape the brunt of it, Noyes indicated.

BRITAIN MAPS NEW BLOCKADE ACTION

LONDON, June 14 (AP)—The British government informed the House of Commons today that it was considering possible measures of retaliation against the Japanese blockade of the British concession at Tientsin.

Foreign Undersecretary R. A. Butler announced the government's position, but said the exact nature of possible retaliatory measures had not yet been determined.

He said Britain was keeping in close touch with the governments of the United States and France on all developments. The French concession at Tientsin also is blockaded.

MAY BAR SHIPS

Asked whether he would inform Tokyo immediately that Japanese ships would be barred from Britain's Far Eastern ports of Hongkong, Singapore and Penang in retaliation for the blockade, Butler said:

"The question of what measures would be appropriate with regard to the Japanese blockade of the British concession at Tientsin is at present under examination and must depend in some degree on the nature of action taken by the Japanese."

"In connection with the blockade, may I ask whether British residents are suffering in any way owing to the food shortage or the increase in prices?" Laborite Frederick Bellenger asked.

Butler said Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax was expecting a full report on the situation and would make a statement to Parliament as soon as the report was received.

The government was said by an informed source to be continuing to urge establishment of a court of enquiry with a neutral chairman.

Body Hurled into Creek Seven Miles From Home

CLYDE, O., June 14 (AP)—Sheriff H. L. Myers announced today the body of 10-weeks-old Haldon Fink, reported stolen from the crib of his home here last night, had been found in a creek on a farm seven miles west of Clyde.

The child had been missing about 12 hours when its body was found in Green Creek on the George Thomsen farm near U. S. highway No. 20.

Sheriff Myers, who said earlier today the disappearance of the boy "looks like a kidnaping," announced he had enlisted the aid of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Finding of the body culminated an all-night search by a posse of 3000 after the baby's disappearance between 10 and 11 o'clock last night.

BLANKET MISSING

The body, the mouth slightly bloody, was recovered from the creek by two deputy sheriffs, Ted Paul and L. D. Krugh, who sighted it downstream as they stopped on a bridge over U. S. highway 20.

The child was 71 feet from the bridge, its body floating three feet from shore in a maze of willow branches. The creek is 35 feet wide and nine feet deep at that point.

Deputy Paul theorized the body had been thrown from the bridge. The body was dressed in a baby's shirt and diaper. A bootee and blanket taken with the infant when it was snatched from its cradle were missing.

Coroner D. W. Philo was called.

He said death evidently resulted from "homicide by drowning," and added "there are no apparent signs of physical violence."

Dr. Philo said it was unusual that the body was found floating, since two or three days usually pass before a drowning victim's body comes to the surface.

As for the blood about the mouth Dr. Philo said he had no opinion except that an abrasion might have resulted when the child was thrown into the water.

MOTHER SOUNDS ALARM

The baby was taken from the home of his grandfather, Oren Baker, who was asleep in an adjoining room at the time. The child's disappearance was discovered when the mother, Mrs. Ervin Fink, and Mrs. Baker, returned home from a neighborhood visit.

The child's father, who recently was divorced by Mrs. Fink, denied all knowledge of the baby's whereabouts when questioned by deputy sheriffs. Authorities said Fink, a factory worker, was able to account for all his movements.

Arraign Mrs. Ayer On Smuggling Charge

NEW YORK, June 14 (INS)—Mrs. May Hancock Ayer, whose socially prominent husband left her $2,000,000, tottered into federal court today and pleaded not guilty to charges of smuggling $14,274 worth of jewels and finery.

Her son, Grederick, 35, a nurse and a doctor, supported the 65-year-old woman whose counsel pleaded that to put her on trial on July 13, as asked by the government "would kill her."

Date of trial was set for Sept. 11.

SLOVAKS FEAR GRAB BY HITLER

BRATISLAVA, SLOVAKIA, June 14 (AP)—Many Slovaks were alarmed by unofficial reports from Berlin and Budapest today that this three-month-old state, nominally independent remnant of former Czecho-Slovakia, might be partitioned "before the harvest."

(The reports were denied in official Berlin quarters.)

The economic plight of this isolated little country, some Slovaks believe, may force their government to agree to a union with Hungary, with this capital and the Vag valley, which the Nazis have fortified since March, under German control.

A high source in Bratislava predicted that Chancellor Hitler and Hungarian leaders would come to terms in July on a division of Slovakia.

Ex-Wife Asks Court Jail Bancroft Heir

It was all very cosy and friendly in Norfolk Probate Court, Quincy, today what with the socially-prominent Mrs. Marjorie Dow Bancroft, wife No. 1 of Hugh Bancroft, Jr., exchanging friendly greetings with the equally eminent Mrs. Bettina Gray Bancroft, wife No. 2—all this despite the fact that wife No. 1 is trying to put her ex-husband in alimony jail.

High point of the hearing came when Mrs. Bancroft No. 1, took the stand to tell of all the friendly goings-on after she and the heir of the late owner of the Wall Street Journal were divorced in March, 1936.

It was then, she said, that he furnished an apartment for her in New York, gave her jewelry totalling $3500 in value, which included on brooch at $1200, and gave her considerably more than the $650-a-month her divorce decree called for.

NEEDS MONEY QUICK

But, she went on sadly, all that is over now. He hasn't given anything since last August, the jewelry is in pawn, and she's $1500 behind in rent for her $225-a-month New York apartment.

She must have money, she said, and quick.

And so saying she smiled and nodded at her ex-husband, and her successor, and went out into the corridor.

The hearing was attended by quite a number of the younger set of Cohasset, Scituate and Hingham. The Bancrofts live in Cohasset, where he is well known as a sportsman and yachtsman.

First to take the stand was Attorney John B. Mahar, Rockland, who identified himself as the attorney hired by Mrs. Bancroft, Sr., to watch out for her son's affairs after he had gotten himself involved in financial entanglements.

When he took over, he said,

Babs' Heart Sad as She Sails Away

NEW YORK, June 14—With heavy heart, the Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow (Babs Hutton) sailed away for Europe today on the Normandie, because she no longer is a citizen of the United States and her stays here are limited.

And there are many of her friends who say this is one of the reasons she is now divorcing the Danish husband who is the father of her son—the fact that Haughwitz-Reventlow talked her into becoming a subject of his Danish King.

Babs would like to remain here indefinitely. Some day she hopes to, but just now the law says her visits must be limited, just as if she were any other visiting alien and had not been born here.

According to friends, also, the petite and blonde Woolworth heiress intends that little Lance Haugwitz-Reventlow will become an American citizen when he attains his majority and is free to decide under which flag he'll live.

In fact, she intends returning here again in the autumn, bringing Lance with her.

WANTS SON BE AMERICAN

She will bring him over on other occasions also, because she wants her son to grow up to understand American ways and American traditions.

Making him American in thought and spirit is one of her aims in life, for she is now said to realize what a precious thing it is to be a citizen of the United States.

NEW QUIZIN COP KILLINGOF GIRL

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., June 14—Not six as originally specified but eight bullets were reped plucked today from the exhumed body of Joan Stevens, 11, seventh grade school girl shot in "self-defense" by 210-pound Corporal Benjamin Franklin of the state police.

As news from the autopsy chamber spread through this little mining town in the Carbon County hills, an insistent demand arose that the attorney general of Pennsylvania step into the case.

Members of a "justice committee" who have raised funds and retained counsel for a thorough-going inquiry declare the attorney general should assign a special prosecutor from the state capitol at Harrisburg to work with the district attorney of Carbon County, Albert Heimbach.

The miner's daughter was slain in the back seat of a state police patrol car June 6.

Corporal Franklin and Patrolman Ed Swatji, who were in the front seat of the machine, testified at the coroner's inquest she pulled a gun from her purse, aimed at Franklin and cried: "Drive me to Lansford or I'll blow your brains out."

Whipping into action with his .32-calibre automatic, the corporal discovered after he had emptied a stream of lead into the child that her weapon was a toy cap pistol.

The policemen said they were keeping an appointment with Joan to learn details of a bank holdup plot she claimed to have discovered. There have been a number of robberies here recently.

At the district attorney's insist-

La Deitrich's Dilemma

NEW YORK, June 14—White hoods blossomed today in New York's smartest places last night like mushrooms after a rain, or a Klan Konklave as a result of the tragic misadventure of Marlene Deitrich and Mrs. Dudley Roberts, Jr., in the Monte Carlo.

Upon that occasion Marlene, proud of her brand new citizenship papers, swept into the place like an empress, dressed in a long, flowing, clinging white gown, a hood over the gorgeous Deitrich hair, shading the glamorous Deitrich eyes. It was a grand entrance, but—horrors!—there sat Mrs. Roberts in exactly the same costume!

The comments swept the room like the rustling of a wind in a meadow, striking a crescendo which sounded suspiciously like a gale of pianissimo laughter. Marlene couldn't take it. Gathering her robe about her, and chucking to her escorts—Josef von Sternberg, director; Rudolph Seiber, her husband; and Erich Maria Remarque, the novelist—she swept from the room.

Interviewed after the misadventure both Marlene and Mrs. Roberts conceded that it was simply a matter of happenstance that both wore duplicate gowns, which were not bought at the same place, nor were the work of the same designer.

But, as a result of the uproar, hoods this season, my dear, are strictly de rigueur—the thing, le dernier cri, actually a sort of a hunk of stuff.

Oo, la la and la! . . .

SO. SHORE TRAIN RIDERS GET THE BAD NEWS

Sharp realization of what awaits them came to thousands of commuters and shoppers from southeastern Massachusetts today with the posting of notices in all stations announcing the discontinuance of passenger service over the Old Colony railroad, beginning Sept. 24.

They gathered in groups wherever the notice was put up, reading over again what already had been told by the railroad trustees to Governor Saltonstall—that the railroad has been operated at a loss since 1936, and that abandonment of passenger service is all that can save even a part of its activities.

And even as the notices were posted, hearings began in Washington before the Interstate Commerce Commission on the reorganization plan for the Old Colony, and for the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, which has been operating it since 1936.

Lieutenant Governor Horace T. Cahill represented the state at the hearings, backed up by attaches of the attorney-general's office. Attorney-General Paul A. Dever has announced that he intends to fight the abandonment, questioning the statements of "huge losses," and pointing out that the railroad, because of its franchise, has obligations to the public which must be met.

No matter what may be the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission on the road's reorganization plan, it must also be approved by the State Public Utilities Commission because most of the road is within the borders of the state.

Labor Fights Dropping Of Old Colony Line

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Railway labor spokesmen entered proceedings on reorganization of the New Haven Railroad today, opposing the proposed abandonment of passenger service on the Old Colony line in the Boston commuting area.

The Old Colony has been operated under lease by the New Haven, now involved in the reorganization hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Old Colony's plan of reorganization calls for a division of its properties, with the more profitable lines going to the New Haven and the less profitable ones to be abandoned by January 1, 1941.

LABOR FILES PETITION

Commissioner Charles D. Mahaffie and Examiner Homer Wilkinson, who presided at the hearing, received a petition from the Railway Labor Executives' Association and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen opposing the proposed abandonment of the Old Colony.

They believe, the petitioners said, that "by the use of improved methods, and more efficient management, the said lines of railroad so sought to be abandoned can be operated profitably as a portion of the so-called New Haven system, or at a loss so small that the same will not place an undue burden upon the operations of the system as a whole."

CUT CAPITALIZATION

The New Haven has expressed a willingness to operate the Old Colony properties if relieved of the responsibility of providing passenger service in the Boston area.

The New Haven amended plan of reorganization, on which the ICC opened hearings, would provide total capitalization of $384,846,842 for the reorganized New Haven.

Present common stock holders would receive nothing for their holdings, the plan stating that "there is no equity for holders of common stock." Preferred stockholders would receive new common stock, but the amount has not been determined.

E. G. Buckland, chairman of the New Haven board, the first witness, said the latest estimate of the road's 1939 earnings available for fixed charges was $8,200,000, compared with the proposed annual fixed charges of $6,500,000 in the amended plan of reorganization.

From 1933 through 1938, he said, the average annual income available for payment of fixed charges was $7,736,700, and 1938 was the only year in that period when income failed to meet the proposed annual charges of $6,500,000.

The present estimate of 1939 earnings was well above the $7,000,000 estimate for the year made last January 1, Buckland said.

Attorney Mitchell Named to Parole Job

Governor Saltonstall today nominated Joseph S. Mitchell, Boston attorney and member of the program committee of the Republican national committee, as a member of the state parole board.

Mitchell, a native of Auburn, Ala., and a graduate of Talladega College and Boston University Law School, will succeed William H. S. Dabney, whose term expired. Dabney was appointed by former Governor Charles F. Hurley.

The chief executive reappointed Charles Townsend Copeland of Cambridge, Harvard's famous professor emeritus of rhetoric and oratory, to the board of trustees of the state library, and named Charles W. Greenough of Dover a trustee of the Medfield State Hospital to succeed the late Eva M. Watson.

Douglas J. Richardson, former president of the Fall River city council and a lieutenant in the Royal Air Corps during the World War, was named chairman of the Fall River board of police to fill the place left varant by expiration of the term of Simon S. Sullivan.

R. Minturn Sedgwick of Dedham, also a Harvard graduate, was re-appointed director of the Collateral Loan Company.

Daniel J. Mullane of Chelsea was re-appointed to the board of excise for the City of Chelsea.

For the first time in the memory of State House veterans, an attorney general was called upon to preside at the council meeting, but Attorney General Paul A. Dever immediately disqualified himself. Neither he, nor anyone else could preside as long as the governor was in the state, Dever ruled. The governor was in Worcester for the Holy Cross graduation so the appointments were put over until tomorrow.

3 PROBES IN PUPIL BRANDING

BALTIMORE, June 14 (AP)—Three separate investigations of an alleged attack on a junior high school student by swastika-decked schoolmates were under way today.

Mayor Howard W. Jackson ordered Forest Bramble, school board president, to conduct an exhaustive probe into the reported branding of Melvin Bridge, 14, Jewish Gwynn't Falls Junior High chool student, by 40 fellow pupils. Bridge said an "H" was slashed in his neck when he admitted he was Jewish.

J. Bernard Wells, state's attorney, planned to confer with S. Page Nelson, grand jury foreman, and present the evidence already gathered to the grand jury within the next two or three days.

David Weglein, superintendent of schools, already has an investigation under way.

MAYOR MAKES PROBE

Mayor Jackson said he would personally conduct the investigation the school board probe results were unsatisfactory.

So far, the only arrest made was the detention of Morton Rosen, 19-year-old seaman friend of Bridge, held for grand jury action and released under $100 bail on charges he assaulted Harry Ebberts, 15, and Carroll Phillips, 17, in retaliation for the attack on Bridge.

Eighteen Gwynn's Falls students have been suspended in connection with the Bridge occurrence. Four students of City College High School were suspended for a retaliatory foray after the alleged branding.

POLICE ON GUARD

Police established a two-car radio patrol at the junior school, where half the 2500 students were said by officials to be of German origin and 30 per cent of Jewish faith, while school authorities sought to determine if the assault was the result of a prank or an organized anti-Semitic outburst.

Barring of the four from classes was disclosed after a preliminary hearing into assault and disorderly conduct charges against Morton Rosen.

Ban on Rites For Slain Czech

PRAGUE, June 14 (AP)—Johann Mueller, Czech policeman slain Friday by a German police officer, was buried privately today after German authorities had banned a public funeral in fear of disorders.

Only relatives and a few others were present for the interment in Porici, Mueller's home town.

Approximately 20,000 persons had gathered at nearby Nachod for a public funeral when German authorities banned the ceremony at the last moment saying they feared trouble.

The Jewish community of Kladno will be forced to pay 80 per cent of the 500,000 crown (about $20,000) fine levied upon the district by Baron Konstantin von Neurath, Reich protector, for the killing of a German policeman, it was learned from Czech informants today.

The remaining 20 per cent will be collected from supporters of the "Benes" (former Czecho-Slovak president) system. This means Germans living in the district and those sympathetic toward the protectorate will be exempted from payment.

Protectorate authorities announced they had arrested "a Czech woman" who "in all probability is a confidante of the slayer."

Britain Ousts Nazi Consul

LONDON, June 14 (INS)—Implication of a German agent in the theft and sale of plans of a British government factory in Lancashire was disclosed by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in Commons today.

As a result, the Prime Minister said, Britain has asked Germany to recall the envoy, Walther Reinhardt, consul-general in Liverpool.

Reviewing the case of Joseph Kelly, an Englishman recently convicted under the official secrets act, Chamberlain said:

"His Majesty's government must accept the conclusion that Reinhardt assisted Kelly in making contacts with foreign agents on the continent to whom Kelly sold plans of the government factory at Euxton, Lancashire."

Chamberlain did not divulge details of Reinhardt's alleged dealings with Kelly.

FRANCO TO VISIT ROME

LONDON, June 14 (INS)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco will pay a visit to Rome in September, the Exchange Telegraphic Agency said today in a dispatch from Rome.

MIDNIGHT
Is No Time to be Without Dependable Indigestion Relief

Nor is it wise to be without relief day or night. So many things cause stomach distress. Nervousness, hurry, poor teeth, bad food, etc. But though upsets come from many causes there is one dependable, easy way to bring relief from the distress when your stomach pours out too much fluid and makes you feel sour and sick all over. Just take a few little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion. Relief comes so fast you can't believe it.

Because, you see, Bell-ans helps the stomach digest food, makes the excess stomach fluid harmless and lets you eat the nourishing foods you need. For your family's sake put Bell-ans in the cabinet now. Painful distress, heartburn and upset go like magic and any 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans.

RUSH REFUGEES TO NEW HAVENS

PARIS, June 14 (AP)—The Hamburg-American liner St. Louis was ordered today to proceed to Europe under full steam with her cargo of 907 homeless German-Jewish refugees who have been granted temporary havens in France, Britain, Belgium and the Netherlands.

The orders were sent the liner through her owners after Morris C. Troper, European chairman of the American joint distribution committee, had an interview with Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet.

Some 700 of the refugees are awaiting entrance into the United States under immigration quotas.

The liner had been idling in mid-atlantic while the American committee sought temporary homes for the refugees, who have been aboard her since she departed from Hamburg May 15. The vessel turned back to Europe after the Cuban government refused to admit them.

The refugees are to be landed at Antwerp this week-end.

Pope Blesses Duce and King

VATICAN CITY, June 14 (AP)—Pope Pius XII invoked blessings on King Vittorio Emanuele and Premier Mussolini in his regular public audience.

The benediction was given after he addressed students and teachers of the Visconte Royal high school in Rome, who were among 6000 persons received in audience.

"On all of you, on all your families, on His Majesty the King and Emperor, and on him who guides the destinies of your country," the Pope said, "we invoke from the Lord the choicest graces and the most abundant blessings."

REARREST PATRIARCA IN COURT

ance again in Middlesex Superior Court.

PLEAS ARE FILED

Even before the arrest, however, Attorney Callahan was told by Judge Wilford D. Gray that he had signed a habeas corpus writ for Patriarca's appearance in Middlesex court this afternoon during the arguments.

The pleas on which Callahan would argue were all based on the contention that what evidence there was presented against Patriarca to the Middlesex grand jury was given by a single policeman who had "no personal knowledge" of the automobile theft charged.

At the same time, Attorney Max L. Glazer was allowed to file similar pleas in behalf of Benjamin Tilley, state prison convict who is named with Patriarca in the automobile indictments.

William V. Robinson, probation officer of the state parole board, was in court, but took no part.

Brighton police obtained the Oxford Print warrant in Brighton court, in spite of the fact that Patriarca was once freed of charges of aiding in the print shop robbery.

Nazis Guillotine Red Spy Leader

BERLIN, June 14 (AP)—Convicted of preparing for high treason Herbert Israel Michaels of Hamburg was guillotined today.

He had been accused before the People's Court of forming illegal organizations in several North German cities, spying on the German army, preparing attacks on vital war industries and being in the service of the Communist International.

Pardon Fees Traced By Racket Probers

Money paid for pardons has been traced down by the special commission probing the Massachusetts "pardon racket," it was disclosed today by a commission member.

The revelation came as the commission resumed its questioning of witnesses behind closed doors at the State House, after a lapse since Monday.

Also disclosed was that persons whose names have never been mentioned before in the pardon racket inquiry have been connected as go-betweens in the buying of pardons and paroles.

SURPRISES ARE DUE

"There will be many surprises when the commission makes its report," said this member, who asked that his identity not be made public at this time.

It was learned that the entire commission went out of town last night on a secret mission and did not return until early this morning.

Members of the body declined to say where they had gone or what had been the purpose of the trip, but it was thought generally that it had to do with the Patriarca case.

It is expected that Raymond L. A. Patriarca himself will be called before the commission next week as a witness and questioned concerning circumstances of his pardon after serving only 84 days of concurrent three-to-five-year sentences.

The same commission member who revealed that money payments for pardons have been traced said also that the commission has succeeded in linking Patriarca with the "strip bandit gang," members of whom conducted whirlwind robbery tours and forced even women to disrobe in order to eliminate them as close pursuers.

Ralph W. Robart, chairman of the state parole board, was the first witness called before the commission this afternoon, but eventually all members of the board will be called, it was announced.

Also it was announced that public hearings will be held in the future, "to give the public the entire, sordid picture."

CIO WEIGHS $60 AGE AID PLAN

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The CIO executive board was considering today a proposal for $60 a month old age pensions granted only to the needy over 60 years of age.

Advocates of the plan said it would be financed by both payroll taxes and general revenue funds acquired through estates and gift taxes. They estimated it would least the cost of the social security program $600,000,000, for some 2½ per cent of the nation's population.

Refute U. S. Girl's Love For Hitler

NEW YORK, June 14 (INS)—Reports that Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany had charmed away the heart of Miss Miriam Verne, 19, Pittsburgh acrobatic dancer, whose art he has admired, were ridiculed today by the dancer's mother, Mrs. A. C. Staley.

"It's nonsense," asserted Mrs. Staley, who in a few days will leave for Munich with Miriam's aunt, Mrs. Alice Koegler, of Miami, to join the dancer in Munich and guard against any future reports of romantic interest between the dancer and the Chancellor.

"It's just too silly, these reports that Miriam said she was almost in love with Hitler," declared the dancer's young cousin, Mrs. Bernard Firth, of Jacksonville, Fla., a former actress.

"Why, Miriam wrote me that when she was summoned to a command performance before Hitler she was half frightened to death. Of course, she was proud that her dancing had been singled out and she wrote that he was kind to her and treated her well.

"But, romance—why, there isn't a word of truth in it."

It was the consensus of the women that Miriam had no other love but her dancing.

Police Commissioner Timilty announced today that the hundreds of boy members of the Junior Police Corps will get a week's vacation free of charge some time this summer.

Vacationland will be at Scotland in Dover, and the boys will have to provide only their clothes and blankets.

Swimming, boating and fishing will be free, as will cots in the dormitory and food.

It won't cost the city anything, for what civic minded citizens don't contribute will be made up by the commissioner out of his own pocket.

The stagger system will be used. The dormitories can accommodate only 50 boys at a time. A scout counsellor will be in charge.

Queen Mother Must Cancel Engagements

LONDON, June 14 (INS)—Physicians to Queen Mary ordered the mother of King George VI to cancel all her engagements for the week because her recovery from a recent automobile accident has not been as steady as was expected.

Members of the Queen mother's entourage at Marlborough House said her general health is excellent.

GOVERNOR'S AIDE DRAFTS BILL AGAINST CALLAHAN

Formal charges of misfeasance, malfeasance and nonfeasance in office were being drawn up today by Raymond S. Wilkins, personal counsel to Governor Saltonstall, against Public Works Commissioner William F. Callahan, who refused yesterday to resign.

And as the charges were being prepared, one faction in the fight was speculating upon a possible successor to Callahan, while another was asserting that the governor will fail in his ouster attempt and were making bets and giving odds.

3 "POSSIBILITIES"

Three possible candidates mentioned for Callahan's $7500 job were Charles P. Howard, chairman of the special commission which investigated Callahan's department; Elmer C. Nelson, the governor's employment secretary, and Fred Butler of Andover, chairman of the Essex county commissioners and candidate for the Republican nomination for governor last fall.

Meanwhile, reports at the State House were that Callahan has a surprise up his sleeve in his battle against ouster proceedings.

It was also reported that not a few of the hurricane repair work trucking contracts were attained through Republican members of the Legislature and that these members will not support the governor's ouster attempt.

SCOFFS AT CHARGES

Friends of Callahan pointed out that the report of the special commission—on which report the ouster proceedings are based—is concerned only with hurricane work.

Also pointed out was the fact that the hurricane emergency bill was pushed through by the Republican majority in the Legislature over protests of the Democratic minority.

As the governor and his aides bent to their most ambitious ouster attempt, Commissioner Callahan laughed off charges of "laxity," "gift contracts" and "waste" made by the special investigating commission.

Defiantly, he refused to accede to the Governor's demnd to resign his $7500 post, a post he has held for five years.

He declared the move against him was "based on political and prejudiced motives" and promised to refute with ease the charges on which the governor hopes to remove him.

BATTLE OPENS

War lines were drawn after Callahan refused to resign on a personal request from the governor.

Striding from the executive offices, the commissioner issued the following statement:

"Governor Saltonstall has requested my resignation and I have refused his request and have asked that in all fairness I be given a public hearing before the Governor and his council.

"Charges have been made against me and these charges I know are based on political and prejudicial motives. As a public official I have the right to give my side of the story.

"I informed the Governor that I have been investigated a great many times and I have riddled every charge against me. I can refute these charges with ease.

"This is not the first time that a request has been made for my resignation by the Governor's office. On Jan. 9, Carol Meins, the Governor's secretary, visited my office and demanded my resignation on the grounds that a new administration was in control and they thought they ought to have their own friends in office. I refused that request also.

"This request was not made public heretofore, because I was specifically asked to keep this demand from the press. But at that time I reserved the right to release the information when I saw fit."

Callahan's defiant refusal to resign at the Governor's order was followed by a statement from the Governor himself, who said:

"I met Mr. Callahan by appointment and stated I had read the report of the investigating commission. In view of that report, I asked him for his resignation and he declined. I told him I would notify him of the date of removal proceedings on these charges."

REARDON AS PRECEDENT

Asked before whom removal proceedings would be heard, Gov. Saltonstall answered:

"Before me."

He added that the probable date of the proceedings would be some time during the coming week.

Gov. Saltonstall indicated he would follow in Callahan's case the same procedure as in the ousting of Education Commissioner James G. Reardon shortly after the Governor assumed office last January.

2 in Teetering Car Ease Their Way to Safety

PHILADELPHIA, June 14 (AP)—Two brothers scrambled precariously to safety today from an automobile teetering half in the air, 60 feet above the Schuylkill river.

Joseph Hintermeier, 35, told police the car skidded and crashed through the bridge rail.

He and his brother, Thomas, 28, climbed gingerly into the back seat, slowly opened a rear door and stepped out on the bridge. A police tow truck pulled the car back.

Author of 'FAVORITE WIFE'

[illegible] was [illegible] that she was the first girl Burne had ever taken out to supper even though the [illegible] had been that [illegible] worth it to him.

They drove fast to the Broadway Ice Club and she had never skated so well, creatively with [illegible] effort. The rink was like an [illegible] she floated, dancing for triumphant, tossing pirouettes [illegible] counted to her tongue. And for this turn she'd got a great tall headdress—silver, with waving plumes.

She was [illegible] ready to cry. [illegible] as her [illegible] because [illegible] who couldn't be [illegible] to be [illegible] Mrs. York. [illegible] of a man would [illegible] for one [illegible] for his [illegible]

[illegible] Mrs. York [illegible] pressed [illegible] they now [illegible] man or woman could [illegible]

"I [illegible] grew" he sighed. "In spite of all the explanations [illegible] tried to make."

She sighed. "No. I'm not used [illegible] kind of mother."

"Not a mother-in-law either."

He frowned. "I don't know how [illegible] going to get on with [illegible] to the wedding."

"We ought to have asked her, Burne."

"We couldn't. It would [illegible] been. You don't know the way [illegible] have worked me. And can you imagine her coming to [illegible] you've seen that Vanity girl [illegible] at the Lyric?"

She couldn't. "If she [illegible] I [illegible] we should have asked her to lunch somewhere quiet" as "be- [illegible] of us.

Why, he said, almost [illegible] "don't you think that we de- serve a bit of fun, you and I? A [illegible] way I can tell you this dear [illegible] come to love it!"

She was wearing the frock of gay printed silk with the long dark close coat over it and the [illegible] black turban but which had been [illegible] wedding garments.

She'd think you look terribly smart," he said, "terribly [illegible] giant of course."

UNFORGIVABLE

"But I got these on Purpose [illegible] only to show her what I were yesterday."

Mother won't care what you were yesterday now, that [illegible] when you committed the [illegible] unpardonable crime of marrying me."

Then he said, "As a matter of fact, I don't think you're [illegible] good enough. You haven't a lot of clothes have you?"

So he had noticed! She would have loved that he would have taken his eyes away from his own [illegible] long enough to notice her hats, her shoes, her dresses.

The tasseled handbag Dutch Vanderk's gift lay on her arm.

"No, I never have many clothes," she said. "I buy few and [illegible]

He nodded approvingly.

"That's better perhaps, seeing you've had to travel about."

She was a little [illegible] thinking that she had never so far as planned herself and her [illegible] stages to him with the frankness with which he had [illegible] and [illegible] self to, her. He had certainly kept nothing back but she was [illegible] that she had. She did not [illegible] [illegible] of the future.

The time must come when she could make them [illegible] and gradually.

Just as he had promised [illegible] mother stood at her gate.

When the car drew up and she saw the same girl who had come here last Saturday her [illegible] grew [illegible] face seemed to [illegible] tightly her eyes clouded, for one [illegible] felt [illegible]

On Miss Flowers!"

Burne heard that voice and sprang with [illegible] like movement after his wife. He flung an arm about her shoulders. They stood outside the gate and Mrs. York stood inside it, looking at each other.

"Not Miss Flowers, mother!"

Perhaps it was the best way in which he could have told their news to Mrs. York. Suddenly

"What do you mean," his mother asked very low.

"Don't be shocked, mother. These things have to happen, you know, Day and I got married yesterday."

Mrs. York didn't even answer. Her eyes widened and raised her mouth opened to speak but no [illegible] again. She seemed to sag all over. Then very rigidly she straightened herself, turned her back on them and walked into the house.

Burne swung open the gate for Day. "Come on! She's just knocked out for a moment."

They caught up with his mother in the narrow dark linoleumed hall.

Burne put his arm round her and went to kiss her.

But Mrs. York turned, and without a sound put both her arms round him, dragging his tall head down to her.

Day stood aside, feeling that she had been thrust aside.

"What have you done?" Mrs. York wailed. "How could you?"

"Let's sit down a minute, mother," he expostulated, "and have it out."

The door of the sitting room was open. They all went in together, and Burne put his mother into one of the two armchairs. "Sit down, Day," he said, indicating the other. He stood between them, towering like a young giant in the small room.

Will Burne's mother ever become reconciled to his marriage? Don't miss tomorrow's chapter.

Abe Forces Star Witness To Confess Stabbing

"[illegible]'S GOLDY'S ALMANAC!" Lincoln declared [illegible] was holding toward a terrified Palmer. "Want [illegible] look at it?"

[illegible]

"But you did lie, I tell you," Lincoln insisted. The judge, Felder and all the rest were forgotten now, as he bore down on this man, the [illegible] "That's as plain as the nose on your face. But why? Come on—tell us! What made you tell a lie about that moonlight?"

"I—I don't know," Cass persisted, "what you're talking about."

Lincoln chuckled grimly. "Then I'll tell you what I'm talking about," he said. "You lied because you and Scrub had a fight—but it wasn't politics. You never mentioned politics. That was your first lie, wasn't it?"

"It was politics!" cried Cass, still trying to brazen it out. "It was! It was!"

"No!" Lincoln corrected. "You were fighting about something else. Maybe it was money. Either you owed him money or he owed you some—"

"No!"

"Or maybe," Lincoln went on, relentlessly, "he was getting a little graft here and there and you wanted to be in on it."

"No!" screamed Cass. "No—no!"

"Maybe some girl—"

"No!"

"Then WHAT WAS IT?" pried Lincoln. "Come on! It was one of those things. Something that made you want to get rid of Scrub."

"You're crazy!" gasped Cass, laughing shakily. "He was my friend."

"Maybe. But just the same you [illegible] Now why? Why did you [illegible] shrank [illegible] continued.

"Yes," Lincoln decided, quietly. "You killed him. Then you tried to lie your way out of it, and your lie tripped you up. You can't deny that. CAN you?" he demanded as Cass backed away. "Answer me—you did kill him, didn't you? I—I—you?"

CASS CONFESSES

"I tell you," blurted Cass, completely broken, "I didn't mean to do it. I—I'd been drinking. Then, as Lincoln grabbed his arm "Yeh, we did have a fight. But I didn't mean to. Scrub was my friend and—"

"That's enough!" Lincoln cried in elated tones, letting Cass go and wheeling on the State Prosecutor. "Your witness, Mr. Felder."

The minute he let go of him, however, Cass blew up. He began to go to pieces right there before their eyes. Billings and a couple of deputies grabbed him and as they hurried him off to the cells the entire courtroom broke into wild cheering, Mary Todd along with the rest.

The judge rapped for order but it didn't do a bit of good. The prisoners had leapt from the box and were embracing their women folk. The jury were yelling as loudly as any.

Lincoln left the courthouse a few minutes later in a perfect daze. As he came down the steps he could hear people cheering all around him and FOR him.

"That's the stuff, Lincoln," they cried. "I knew you'd get them boys off . . . Sure glad to see this happen, Abe . . . You sure caught [illegible]

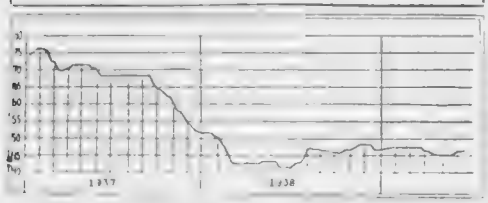
Income Figures For New England



Vertical column represents price in cents per pound. Horizontal measure years by months with price line marked for reference to month figures.

The recent outburst of interest in national income figures for 1938 largely overlooked its local state and sectional angle . . . In an effort to complete the picture for New England we have obtained the necessary totals for northeastern states.

ACTUALLY The figures or estimates furnished by the reliable [illegible] verse state anybody is the terse [illegible]

[illegible] What the figures state [illegible] The first thing that impresses is the failure of New England states to provide their expected better than over the performance . . . Where the country as a whole showed a drop of 13 per cent under the previous year all states in this section save New Hampshire, showed a larger percentage loss . . . The answer, in our opinion is that N E N S have been larger beneficiaries of federal spending . . . And that their showing and effect on the national total can not be construed as a true measure of private business activity . . . While the sharp per capita decline of industrial states are important proof of the barrenness of business recovery, less meaningful here in Massachusetts per capita income was $567 year year . . . In 1929 it was $809 . . . Connecticut's comparative figures are $95 and $642 . . . Industrial activity

BOSTON WOOL . . . Prices are the chart showed today . . . This second presentation [illegible] them [illegible] . . . The average of 25 spot prices compiled by Dun & Bradstreet thus persists in dispensing faint cheer . . . Largely because other raw material prices set contrast . . . Also because reports from the Summer distinct indicate business is rather slow with the majority of houses . . . And as a chartist we can't help but think of the bullish effect of a rise above the 50 cent per pound marker . . .

FINAL STEP . . . In the consolidation of Western Massachusetts Companies into one operating unit is being take . . . The officers have petitioned the Department of Public Utilities for permission to make the change-over . . . Which will not change the capital structure in any way

RUKEYSER

Economic Commentator

Inventories and Current Profits

The late F. Donald Coster's monkey business with the accounts of McKesson & Robbins dramatically focussed popular interest on corporate ways of accounting for the inventory of materials on hand.

The high jinks in this enterprise related to inaccurate reports as to the extent of the inventory.

Apart from this episode, the handling of the inventory usually has a basic relationship to the credibility of corporate reports of current profits.

If the inventory is padded, the meaning of the reported profits is distorted.

For example, in the case of one automobile concern, now out of business, a substantial profits was reported by the management some years back, but on careful analysis it was discovered that the reported net income, or profit, was illusory.

The supposed profit resulted from carrying the inventory of cars on hand at an excessive figure. The management had the usual prospect to liquidate non-current models carried over the [illegible] season.

Perhaps Waldill Catchings, the [illegible] said something like this in mind when he remarked that the chief advantage of being an insider is the knowledge of whose figures to believe.

As a matter of fact, however, such manipulation is exceptional in the case of the large well-managed companies.

Under the new federal legislation, there are of course severe penalties for material omissions as well as for deliberate misinformation.

Mr. Headlee disclosed that the company's general manager of purchases and traffic recently gave out the following advice to his associates in regard to the accumulation of raw materials:

"Buy for current needs and shun both the possible benefits and the almost certain dangers of speculative buying. If the policy of buying for current needs is followed with reasonably good judgment, it is possible to promise, with safety, that serious inventory losses will be avoided."

Hearst Commission's Ideas Win Support

Special to Boston Evening American

WASHINGTON, June 14 . . . Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania today declared that [illegible] social security Act, which were recommended by the non-partisan Social Security Commission sponsored by the Hearst [illegible] seem likely to be enacted into law.

[illegible]

[illegible] "In the light of present events it seems ever more clear that the Hearst sponsored social security commission did well while work leading us to the revisions and improvements for social security now in prospect."

Senator Davis' statement follows: "At a meeting of the senate committee on finance Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the Social Security Board, presented a statement that sounded, with only one or two exceptions, very much as the recapitulation of conclusions of the non-partisan social security commission sponsored by the Hearst papers, which I placed before the Senate on June 1, 1937—two years ago.

Besides Senator Davis, the Hearst commission included Merryle Stanley Rukeyser, economic commentator for the Hearst newspapers, who acted as chairman; William J. Graham, vice-president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society; Samuel W. Reyburn, chairman, the Associated Dry Goods Corporation; Henry I. Harriman [illegible] Chamber of Commerce; Edward E. [illegible] Federation; Herman Feldman, Dartmouth economist and Richard I. [illegible] of the Princeton [illegible] associated with the [illegible] of Washington.

The Hearst commission [illegible] during the two years [illegible] and its findings were again brought to the attention of Congress in connection with the current revision of the act by Merryle Rukeyser in testimony before the senate ways and means committee on March 20 last.

Gifford Hits AT&T Report

NEW YORK June 14 (INS) — [illegible] & T [illegible]

"We have not yet received the report but we must again emphasize the fact that the investigation on which it is based was ex parte and one-sided," the statement read.

"We were denied the right to present witnesses of our own or to cross-examine the commission's witnesses and investigators. While we were permitted, after hearings had been concluded, to submit comments and file a brief, we stated then and we repeat now that this was no substitute for cross-examination and evidence. The recommendations and findings in this final report should be appraised in the light of these facts."

When It's Hot, There's Always One Thing a Fellow Can Do!

Inspiration—Too muggy to stay in the house, even with a detective thriller to read! So eight-year-old Francis Myett of East Boston gets a bright idea.

Determination—Looks like Francis is in a hurry. And his errand must be a pleasant one, if that cheerful grin on his face means anything. Full steam ahead!

Realization—Boy, that water feels good. Now a few more steps, a running plunge—and Francis won't care what the thermometer says!

DIANA BARRYMORE STARTS ON STAGE

NEW YORK, June 13 (AP)—Another member of the acting Barrymore family embarked today on a career behind the lights—with the dream of playing Juliet some day on Broadway.

"I'd love to be able to become Shakespeare—that's what I really want," said the famous theatrical clan's newest recruit to the stage—18-year-old Diana, daughter of actor John Barrymore and of the poet, Michael Strange (Mrs. Harrison Tweed).

Diana boarded a train for Cape Cod rehearsals with a summer stock company. At Orleans she will play the ingenue role in "If Love Could Last" and "Can't Take It With You" and continue with the cast company through the season.

Next fall she returns to Broadway where other Barrymores won their fame, and where she made a turn at acting [illegible] years ago in a revue in which [illegible] was one of the most popular debutantes of last season, but she managed to continue studying at the American Academy of Dramatic Art and saw nearly every play on Broadway.

"Deb parties," she said, "are a bore anyway."

Her mother, who once wrote a play in which John and Ethel Barrymore acted, is a [illegible] for Diana to try her hand at the stage.

Aunt Ethel, whose child had the same dramatic bent, thought it was a good idea. Clement [illegible] Barrymore Holt is now an actor-director with the Jitney Players, a traveling summer group following the tradition of her acting mother who often remarks:

"I always produce my plays").

Diana starts her career, too, with the blessing of Papa John, who told her last winter:

"If you want to act, go on the stage.

France to Decorate Her Business Men

MARRIAGE INSTEAD of career is planned by Madge Evans, screen actress, who has announced that she will wed Sidney Kingsley, playwright, late this month. She said she intends to give up her movie work after her marriage.

ELEANOR HOLM WEDS BILLY ROSE SEPT. 19

NEW YORK, June 24 (INS)—With the granting of her final divorce papers, Eleanor Holm, and Billy Rose today set September 19 for their wedding date.

It was Eleanor's ex-hubby, Art Jarrett, the singer who first broke the news to her. He telephoned her long distance to inform the swimmer that her final divorce papers were issued yesterday at Los Angeles.

Billy's decree from Fanny Brice will become final September 18 and 24 hours later Eleanor will become Mrs. Rose at a small wedding in New York.

The voice sounded familiar to Eleanor when she answered the telephone.

"Hello, Eleanor," said the voice, "this is Art. I thought you might like to know that your final divorce papers have come through out here in Los Angeles. I'd like to wish you luck."

Eleanor said she was happier than she's been since she won her first Olympic championship.

"Both Billy and I have been waiting a long time to get married," she said.

Two Women Drown In Futile Rescue

RAYVILLE, La., June 14 (AP) — When a ten-year-old girl slipped while wading mud fell into deep water of the Bunaf river two fatalities unbelievably plunged into to rescue her. All were drowned.

Richland Parish Coroner T. M. Sayre reported today the victims of the incident yesterday were Ethel Ivy Long, 19, her aunt, Mrs. W. Dan Long, 34, and Mrs. W. O. Smith, 30.

OPEN RUTH ETTING LOVE THEFT TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, June 14 (INS) — Ruth Etting, famous songbird, prepared to appear in a Los Angeles courtroom today to stand trial on charges she alienated the affections of Myrl Alderman, her former accompanist and now her husband.

Alderman's former wife, Alma, seeks $100,000 damages.

Alderman faced possible conspiracy of court charges for his refusal to answer questions in a deposition. He was quoted as saying he was afraid "someone would kill him" if he came to Los Angeles.

Colonel Moe "The Gimp" Snyder, Miss Etting's former husband, was convicted last December of attempting to kill Alderman.

Didn't Have to Thumb Her Way to Hospital

Miss Lucinda Reynolds, 62, of Whitney street, Roxbury, was going that way anyway.

Late for an appointment at the out-patient department at City Hospital, she stepped while boarding an Elevated car at Roxbury Crossing. An ambulance speeded her to her intended destination, where she was treated for lacerations and bruises.

June 14—Flag Day, today. And Old Glory is flying, all over Greater Boston. Pictures above and at right show how city "riggers" hoist a 100-foot pole. This one was raised at City Square, Charlestown. It was up in time to display Stars and Stripes at sunrise this morning.

Citizens' Day

Young Voters—Young American-born men and women, who have reached age of 21 in past year, receive citizenship certificates at colorful San Francisco ceremony, in Golden Gate Park. First to be honored is new voter George Walley. He's shown signing his name. Others are waiting their turn.

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

AMERICANS cannot let this day pass without repeating the foregoing pledge to the AMERICAN FLAG.

Today is FLAG DAY, with all the significance and importance that fact implies for the liberty-loving and peace-loving and just people of the United States.

This is the one hundred and sixty-third year of our INDEPENDENCE under the beautiful and glorious emblem of American freedom.

It is a year of peril and despair for many nations, and of THREATENED war and disaster for most nations.

But unless we have to just will to make it otherwise, it is another year of PEACE FOR AMERICA.

What does it mean to us to have this assurance and satisfaction of being a peaceful free people in a secure, democratic country, [illegible]?

We ought to be the most thankful, grateful and appreciative people in the world.

We are the most fortunate people in the world, except [illegible] has anything to do with the blessings we enjoy.

The founders of this country wrested their independence from the most powerful empire on the face of the earth, and many of them gave [illegible] therefor.

They not only wrested an entire continent, acre by acre and state by state, from a vast and savage wilderness.

Courage and loyalty, FAITH IN LIBERTY AND JUSTICE, not luck, brought this country into existence and made it great.

These are the principles and virtues our flag stands for.

They are what we pledge allegiance to when we repeat that inspiring declaration of loyalty and devotion which appears at the beginning of this editorial.

What American worthy of being called by that name, can fail or refuse to take such a pledge?

FROM HOLLYWOOD

comes a story that millions will read with pleasure and interest. Actress Maureen O'Sullivan and Writer John Farrow are calling their two-weeks-old son Michael Damien.

The name Damien has particular significance. It is that of the saintly martyr Father Damien de Veuster, "Apostle of the Lepers."

It was he and he alone who dared to go to the forbidden Island of Molokai during the reign of Pope Leo XIII.

It was he who labored among the living dead for sixteen years as priest, doctor, nurse, schoolmaster, magistrate, gardener, lumber jacker, cook, undertaker and grave digger.

But he could not escape the dread disease.

It seized him and it killed thousands, and one Sunday morning, when he arose to address his flock, he was able to begin not with the customary "My brethren," but with "We lepers."

MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN AND BABY

God, however, chose to spare him until he had succeeded in convincing the world that a nation calling itself civilized had a duty to perform for its sick and infirm and especially for those afflicted with the most horrible of maladies.

CAREER WOMEN

have a dismal future in business, believes Dr. Samuel N. Stevens, learned dean of the University College at Northwestern.

"The majority," he explains, "inevitably look upon a job as an interlude between school and marriage. This is normal and healthy, but it makes woman an impermanent, unstable part of business personnel."

Millions will take issue with the educator. Most certainly such outstanding examples of feminine progress as Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, first woman governor of Wyoming, first woman director of the United States Mint and first woman to have her likeness on a medal struck by the government; Dr. Florence May Morse of Los Angeles, first woman to hold the title of full professor of merchandizing, and Miss Avis Lobdell, special representative of the executive vice-president of the Union Pacific system.

One might also cite numerous other heads of business and industry. The list would undoubtedly include:

Mrs. Edward L. Doheny, president of the Petroleum Securities Company; Mrs. Dorothy Hollinger, advertising manager; Miss Helen Dryden, only woman automobile designer in the United States, and Miss Mary E. Curran of Boston.

Tides

FROM where the storm king Neptune rides come sweeping in the mighty tides and as they crash against the shore you hear their hoarse deep-throated roar O'er them Dian holds her sway . . . and ever drives them on their way

Thus it has been since from the world . . . the moon in chaos wild was hurled . . . Thus will it be long eons hence . . . when, midst the starry firma ments our earth a planet gray and old shall wander tenantless and cold.

And thus the tides will ever be . . . the pulse beats of eternity.

Human Side of News -:- by EDWIN C. HILL

THE SEMINOLE Indians have long been a hotbed against our civilization [illegible] ending their Hundred Years' War only four years ago.

The 37 who come from the Florida Everglades to set up their camp at our World's Fair here in New York, are the survivors of an unyielding struggle for supremacy in which their pictures of warfare, [illegible] is probably not much exciting than [illegible]

When the Fair is [illegible], a land of enchantment we must seem to them a race of [illegible], with our cash-in-hand [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible]. So it was with the old Duke of Marlborough [illegible] when, viewing the world for the first time, he [illegible] his first [illegible] [illegible] along and remarked: "The [illegible] disgusted with [illegible] that they 'want [illegible] down."

IN THE SEVENTIES the Seminoles sent one of their elder statesmen [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] and report on a policy of [illegible] with the [illegible] of their [illegible] off their war [illegible] joining our deportees.

The sage [illegible] in an [illegible] report. He was all for [illegible]. He said we had just had a big war much worse than any of the swamp rolling. The white people didn't seem to trust their chiefs. He feared the Seminoles wouldn't be very good [illegible] keeping wars.

A. M.—The arrangements for Eddie Cantor to join the group of entertainers for the King and Queen," a Washington official assures, "were cancelled—because Cantor had some idea of referring to Palestine". . . Arthur Treacher, who portrays valet roles in Hollywood, strikes an action-pose for a Kit Kat photographer. "You're serving from the wrong side," an observer corrects. . . "I don't think so," Treacher states. . . "I know better," the other returns. "I was the Duchess of Marlborough's valet for 25 years". . . "The Greatest compliment ever paid me," Tallulah Bankhead declares at the Elysee, "is when Carl Van Vechten told me: 'Tallulah, you're as good as Ethel Waters.'"

LISTEN, WORLD!

Help Elsie Arrange Tour of Nation

By Elsie Robinson

I'M HAPPY TODAY! So happy this letter is going to sound jittery! Words tumbling over each other because I can't wait to tell you the grand news. Come on, celebrate with me! Listen—FLASH!

I'M GOING OUT TO TALK TO YOUNG AMERICA THIS FALL! GOING TO TALK TO YOUNG AMERICA WHEREVER IT LIVES. Going everywhere. Into the schools and churches . . . the auto and the labor camps . . . football fields, factories, dance halls, little theaters.

Going to ask the kids questions and let them ask questions back. Bawl them out and let them bawl me out. Swap yarns. Wisecracks. Help them, if I can.

Going out to Young America!!! AND TRULY, I FEEL SO HAPPY AND PROUD THE HORIZON ISN'T BIG ENOUGH TO HOLD ME.

HOW COME I'm going? My boss is sending me. Grand person, that boss of mine. We've known each other through long and mighty scrambled years. And there's one thing we share increasingly in common.

OUR LOVE OF YOUNG AMERICA! OUR FAITH IN YOUNG AMERICA! OUR LONGING TO HELP YOUNG AMERICA!

So I'm going out as soon as vacation's over. And here's where you come in.

I WANT YOU TO HELP ME PLAN THAT TRIP. I WANT YOU TO TELL ME WHAT TO SAY TO YOUNG AMERICA. I WANT YOU TO FEEL THAT I'M REPRESENTING YOU ON THAT TRIP . . . THAT I'M TALKING FOR YOU, PERSONALLY, TO EVERY UNDER-THIRTY YOUNG AMERICAN . . . AND THE OVER-THIRTIES, TOO.

Why'm I asking that? BECAUSE I NEED YOU . . . BECAUSE THE TRIP WILL BE A FLOP WITHOUT YOU!

For you—and YOU—and YOU—know what these youngsters are facing. Probably you're facing it too. You know what they need to know. You know what will help them . . . and what will hurt them . . . what message they need.

You have that message in your heart. Yours often thinking about it for a long time. Often you've said, "I wish I had that Robinson woman's chance to talk to those kids!" Often you've thought my advice was [illegible] . . . and that you had a lot better dope.

ALL RIGHT . . . HERE'S YOUR CHANCE TO PASS IT ON! HERE'S YOUR CHANCE TO GET YOUR MESSAGE ACROSS!

GIVE ME those thoughts of yours—and let me hand them to the youngsters, with your name. Let me tell them what YOU wish for them; LET ME TELL THEM THAT YOU BELIEVE IN THEM!

LET ME GO OUT TO YOUNG AMERICA UNDER YOUR FLAG . . . CARRYING YOUR LOVE AND HOPE AND FAITH AND PRIDE . . . AND THE TRUTH AS YOU SEE IT!

Is it a bargain? Then let's start NOW! Sit down NOW and get that message off your chest. Call up your friends and tell them, too, what I'm asking. Pass the word along . . . down at the office . . . across the bridge table . . . when you're marketing.

TELL THEM ELSIE'S ABOUT TO HIT THE TRAIL—GOING OUT TO SEE THE KIDS—GOING OUT TO GIVE THEM A HAND . . . AND SHE'S CRYING "S O S!"

Elsie, herself.

Proper Waistcoat

DEAR MISS BEECKMAN:

Will you please tell me which would be correct to wear to a June ball, a white vest with a tuxedo or a black vest? B.

Either a white or black waistcoat is correct with a dinner jacket (tuxedo) but for this occasion I would recommend that the man wear a white waistcoat.

Austen Lake:

College Pitchers Seldom Succeed

TODAY'S LITTLE OPUS DEALS with College pitchers. Maybe you noticed that Hank Borowy, freshly graduated from Fordham and wearing the doubtful label, "Greatest college pitcher of our day," permitted Toronto four hits in his Newark debut and lost 2-0. For Hank is a kid with his collegiate paint still moist for whom the Yankees, in a flight of optimism, paid $10,000 to sign his apprentice papers. Need I mention that ten Grand is important metal for a lad about to buck business in these times of dollar-dearth. Ten G's, for that matter, is a hunk of wealth to anybody, anytime!

AUSTEN LAKE

Let's hope! Perhaps Hank is the exception to a fate so usual among college pitching "greats." For the only college "Greats" to make the major league leap successfully in recent years are Johnny Murphy, whom the Yanks also plucked from Fordham, and Johnny Broaca, whom they snatched from Yale. All other varsity "greats" have been conspicuous flops.

Remember Owen Carroll and Frank Nekola of Holy Cross? Remember Charley Devens of Harvard? And Bill Breckenridge of Dartmouth, to mention only a few.

Carroll was the most magnificent bust of all. He had been a wizard at Mt. St. James for three years, losing only a couple of ball games before passing, one June afternoon, to the Detroit Tigers. Ty Cobb was managing the Tigers and they were playing at Fenway Park. A capacity crowd packed the stands to the eaves. But, sad to relate, Ira Flagstead punched Ownie's first pitch down the third baseline and the rest was a rout. Indeed Carroll never recovered his breath and after a season or so bogged gradually down to [illegible] to wash less to sight. The "stuff" that was so potent in college circles was just tapioca pudding to the pros.

Nekola Got $22,000

THEN THERE WAS NEKOLA FOR WHOM the Yankees peeled off an unbelievable $17,000 to sign and another $5000 salary twixt June and September. But Frankie flopped too. He sagged down to Newark the next year and never rose above the level of Class AA ball. So the Yankees never realized be worth for their $22,000.

Something similar happened to Breckenridge, whom Connie Mack in a spendthrift moment paid $5000 to sign, $5000 as salary and $5000 as a full share of the World Series. But after the season was ended Bill pocketed his $15,000, retired to Texas, wedded a wealthy Miss and began studying law in his Daddy's office. He wrote a punctilio resignation to Connie in which he said that baseball was a joke and diversion for

TIGERS BUY AVERILL AS THEY OPEN AT FENS

By JOE CASHMAN

The Detroit Tigers, who are becoming more dangerous with each series and who recently were so bold as to bump off the Yankees twice, on successive days, helped the Red Sox end a two-day baseball armistice with a double header at Fenway Park this afternoon as the Cronin clan commence a home stand which will last through July 2

Trade Gallagher To St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, June 13 (INS)—Joe Gallagher, hard-hitting young outfielder bought from the New York Yankees by the St. Louis Browns today, has been ordered to report to the club at Philadelphia and will probably break into the game when the Browns play their first night game there tonight.

In return for Gallagher the Browns gave the Yanks [illegible] Lou Hoffman and an [illegible] cash.

The Browns also gave [illegible] outfield help of [illegible] Mc Mazzera to Toronto of the International League.

Averill Sees Tigers Passing Indians

NEW YORK, June 14 (INS)—"That trade is all right with me and you will see the Tigers passing the Indians in the standings any time now," Earl Averill, Cleveland outfielder, said today, who is informed of the trade sending him to Detroit.

"It's a surprise to me, Averill added. I haven't heard from either club yet but I suppose I will leave tonight to join the Tigers in Boston."

Red Sox Expect Better Pitching | Hope to Reduce Lead of Yanks

CHARLES A. COYLE, writing in Boston Business, says:

"Hearst's Sporting Editor Jack Conway showed his versatility with a series of articles on the life of Archbishop Spellman that appeared in hundreds of American newspapers under his 'byline.'" . . .

George Donahue head auditor for the Massachusetts Racing Commission, has done an amazing job in the quick tabulations of the figures concerning the millions that have been poured into the mutuel departments of the horse and dog tracks . . . Despite the speed with which the work is done Donahhie's final counts have never been off even a slim dime . . . Chairman Charles F Connors of the Racing Commission is responsible for Donahue's entrance into racing.

Dave Wilson's [illegible] are even hotter than the weather has been . . . The Boston [illegible] have taken a terrific licking from Wilson followers.

The Red Sox [illegible] seemingly determined to try to cut down [illegible] the Yankees [illegible] on them . . . With better pitching the Sox would [illegible] to give a good account of themselves from now until the [illegible] season closes.

Hubbell Admits Arm Isn't Fit For 9 Innings

CHICAGO, June 14 (AP)—[illegible] Carl Hubbell wants up [illegible] season in his customary spot among the National League's top pitchers, no one will be more surprised than the lanky southpaw himself.

The 35-year-old [illegible] while "meal ticket" of the New York Giants called the turn on his condition today by admitting his arm wasn't ready [illegible] pace.

In fact Hubbell said it was fully he was [illegible] if I ever won 20 games in a season again and added:

"I seem to make out all right for four or five innings and then I begin to lose my stuff. And after the game my arm usually stiffens up for a while and it takes two or three days to limber it up again.

"I've come to the conclusion that winter operation on the elbow took a lot out of my arm, and I think it's going to take me the better part of the season to make it strong again."

Desautels, Peacock Placed 'On the Spot' | Report Tebbetts, Glenn Sought by Sox

By BILL GRIMES

Are Gene Desautels and Johnny Peacock taking the rap for the poor showing of the Red Sox pitchers? . . . According to reports, the Sox have been dickering with the Browns for Joe Glenn and have made overtures to the Tigers for Birdie Tebbetts.

Until this season, neither Glenn nor Tebbetts were first string receivers . . . Glenn didn't have a chance to break into the Yankee line up, while he was with the New York club, unless Joe McCarthy took up Phil Rizzuto . . . Ruddy York than whom no one [illegible] knows more about [illegible] keep Tebbetts on the bench . . .

CRIMSON PILOTS—Harvard's crew brain trust is here, looking very cheery about it all as they plan for Yale. Tom Bolles is head coach, Dud Talbot varsity captain, Harvey Love frosh coach and Bert Haines tutor of the Jayvee and combination eights.

BUT THE THAMES—For Harvard these varsity crews may sweep down the Thames in time trial. Here are, bow to stroke, Warren Pirnie, John Edwards, Captain Dud Talbot, Bob Fowler, Walter Kernan, Sherman Gray, Bob Stevens and Bill Rowe, with George Shortlidge holding tiller ropes.

Feel O. K.—Gehrig

ROCHESTER, Minn., June 14 (INS)—Insisting that I feel all right, Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees today awaited a physical checkup at the famous Mayo Clinic here.

The veteran first baseman entered the clinic today for what he described as a routine physical examination.

Eli Coach Impressed

GALES FERRY, Ct., June 14 (AP)—Acting Head Coach Don Grant was favorably impressed with the Yale varsity crew, training for the annual race with Harvard June 23, led home the junior varsity by five lengths over a four mile, upstream course on the four lashed river Thames.

RED TOP, Ct., June 14 (AP)—The Harvard varsity crew polishing up its rough edges for the Yale regatta and labored under the heaviest work schedule it has had since camp was pitched here last Saturday.

Frank Burns Captain at B. C.

At the conclusion of the Boston College baseball season at Worcester, when the Eagles ended their 1939 campaign with Holy Cross with a split decision, Coach Denny Dorgan, baseball pilot, was directed to the captaincy for the season of 1940.

Burns succeeds Jim Bannon, Somerville youth who led the club of college ball yesterday after scoring the run which gave his team the extra inning decision.

frivolous people but unproductive nonsense for cultured persons. He did not offer to refund the money.

The Devens case was parallel. Charley had curled the edges of the Ivy League with his raw power and jug-handle curve. Judge Emil Fuchs of the Braves ogled him. But the Yankees got him. I happened to be in the room at the Brunswick Hotel when he signed. Joe McCarthy and Papa Devens sat on either side enacting a little tableau while the news cameras popped and Charley said in his best Hasty Pudding accent that he proposed to make baseball a life career. But, though he seemed to have the natural stuff, he hung around for only a couple of semesters, doing odd bull pen jobs and occasionally finishing a lost cause. And in the end the $10,000 which he received might just as well have been heaved down a manhole. Because, after a bit, Charley jumped overboard and swam back to Boston to enter the bond business, marry and take his place in the super-ultra strata of Boston society, than which there is nothing higher but the angels.

Lamar Had a Word for It

I HAVE NEVER HELD WITH THE NOTION that college brains, per se, are an asset in professional athletics. For the college athlete is seldom geared to the razzle-dazzle of commercial games. I have in mind a theory which Henry LaMar, the Virginia-bred coach of Harvard boxing who surrendered his professional fight career some years ago, advances on this subject.

He feels that a man cannot be successful both as a thinker and a fighter too, because while he is thinking up something clever, his alley-bred opponent is fetching him a couple of terrific busts and maybe knocking out his liver and lights. The alley character, Henry decides, is not handicapped by habitual thinking, but just fires his shots by instinct and without delay to intercept and analyze the messages which fly between eye and muscle.

But if your college-bred fighter happens to awaken from a floor stupor, says Henry, he is apt to start thinking some smart thoughts at the instant that the mist clears from his brain. Being trained to logic he may reason that such accidents are not designed for educated persons and that, hygienically punches about the heart, liver and lungs are not conducive to health.

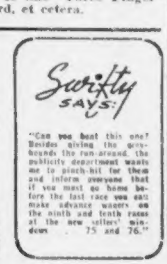
Best Pitchers from the Hayfields

THIS ILLUSTRATES THE DISADVANTAGE of an education in the prize ring, says Henry. Because your uncouth pug, on finding himself chewed to an unsightly hulk, will attempt no thoughts whatever unless they be about a return match with the lucky stiff who landed a blind swing. But your college fighter is apt to arise and admit courteously that his rival packed a convincing wallop indeed and start forming resolutions never again to enter the ring with his betters.

To a somewhat lesser degree the college-bred pitcher is loath to go through the sweaty discouragements of learning his trade in the horse-and-buggy and barefoot leagues. After a brief spell in the honky tonks he is apt to entertain notions that this is no career or brilliant brains. Not all! But some! Which may be why the greatest pitchers in major league history have not been products of the classroom but kids from the hayfields, slag heaps and cobblestones, like Dizzy Dean, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Walter Johnson, Carl Hubbell, Red Ruffing, Lefty Grove. For every college pitcher like the late, great Christy Mathewson or Jack Coombs I will name you 20 like "Three Finger" Brown, Ed Walsh, Chief Bender, Rube Marquard, et cetera.



Swifty SAYS:
"Can you beat this one? Besides giving the greyhounds the run-around, the publicity department wants me to pinch-hit for them and inform everyone that if you must go home before the last race you can make advance wagers on the ninth and tenth races at the new tellers' windows . . . 75 and 76."

Briton Eager to Grab Rival Lovelock's Fame

PRINCETON, N. J., June 14 (INS)—Beneath the placid exterior of Sydney Wooderson and his coach, Al Hill, there smoulders today a feeling toward Jack Lovelock that can be mistaken neither for affection nor love.

It may be the utterly un-British record-consciousness that led Wooderson to four world marks in the past 2 2months, for, while there has been no intimation that this was the purpose, the mitey miler has certainly succeeded thereby in cutting himself a slice of the idolatry lavished on the New Zealand-born Olympic champion.

For that reason, it also can be expected that Wooderson will ask for a special corps of approved timers at the 1500-meter mark in the Princeton mile next Saturday.

It is optimism to the point of absurdity to believe that anyone can pass the 1500 in better time than Lovelock's world record of 3:47.8 on his way to the finish of a mile, yet if Wooderson's imagined opening three-quarters in 3:02 should be achieved (against all the law of probability), the Lovelock mark will be endangered.

"I was only nine-tenths of a second off Lovelock's figures in a race at Oslo last year," said Wooderson, "and I certainly believe his mark can be improved upon. It is far from the perfect record, only equivalent to a 4:06 mile."

If by some freak of circumstance the talked-about 4:02 mile should come to pass, the 1500 would be reached in about 3:46. It would be two records in a lump.

Guibord Paces Bowl Hunters

Top seeded Paul Guibord, Melrose, former Dartmouth athlete and amateur hockey player, today paced the field in the Middlesex bowl tennis singles tournament at the Newton Tennis and Squash Racquets Club.

Guibord entered the third round of the tournament, defeating Walter Camp, 3rd, 6—1, 6—4.

Al Stitt, Newton, fourth-seeded, had trouble with Jack Norris, before winning 6—0, 7—5.

Emily Lincoln, first-seeded, entered the quarterfinal round of the women's singles, winning 6—2, 6—0, over Harriet Nichols.

Third-seeded Elena Ciccone, Brookline, defeated Ruth Carter, Everett, 6—3, 6—1, in another second round match.

Hypnotist Wins Race in Britain

ASCOT, Eng., June 14 (AP)—William Woodward's American-owned Hypnotist, a disappointment in the Derby, today won the King Edward VII Stakes, mile and a half test for the three-year-olds, at the Royal Ascot meeting.

The son of Hyperion-Flying Gal, even money choice, finished three lengths in front of Lord Derby's Cockpit, a 9 to 2 shot. Cockpit was another head in advance of Sir Abe Bailey's High Peru, which was held at 11 to 2.

COLONELS BUY PARMELEE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 14 (INS)—The Louisville Colonels of the American Association, a Boston Red Sox farm, have bought Leroy Parmelee, veteran right-hand pitcher, from the Philadelphia Athletics. He will report to the Colonels at St. Paul tomorrow.

HUEY LEXINGTON CAPTAIN

Norman Huey, a junior, was re-elected captain of the Lexington high tennis team at a special meeting of lettermen.

Yesterday's horse, Chief Counsel, just missed, to finish second, the Bank Roll going to $21.

Today Asbestos tries with one at Suffolk Downs. It is Mae 13-21-10. We bet $3 for place.

Cornell Crew Fails in Test

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 14 (AP)—Cornell and Washington had rather disappointing time trials on the Hudson in preparation for the intercollegiate regatta Saturday, but otherwise only routine training chores were performed.

Cornell, the eastern favorite, was clocked in 20-20 over the full four-mile varsity route while Washington negotiated the distance in 19:50. Neither of the coaches, Harrison Sanford of Cornell or Al Ulrickson of Washington, was satisfied with the trials. "Water conditions were slow, but the crew didn't go at all well," Sanford said.

Close Fight In Women's Golf Tilt

Entering the third and final round of the annual Women's Eastern championship today at the Charles River Country Club, there are at least six contestants still in the running for the title.

Mrs. H. Warren Beard, Charles River, the Bay State champion, is deadlocked with Mrs. H. F. Flippen, a former titleholder, now representing the Huntingdon Country Club of Philadelphia, with 160. Mrs. Beard trailed Mrs. Flippen by two strokes at the end of the first round but made up her deficit by carding a 79 to the Quaker's City girl's 81.

Mrs. Beard and Mrs. Flippen played together yesterday and they fought along on even terms until the 17th hole. Mrs. Beard picked up a stroke at the 5th but she put it back at the 7th, where she shanked a shot and fell a total of three strokes in arrears at the 8th.

A three to Mrs. Flippen's 4 at the 9th put Mrs. Beard on even terms with her rival at the end of the out nine. Mrs. Beard's par at the 10th was good for a stroke and they halved every hole through the 15th. At the long 16, Mrs. Flippen holed a nice put for a birdie to become two up again.

Then, at the 17th, both Mrs. Beard and Mrs. Flippen were trapped, the latter's ball was in almost an unplayable lie up under the lip of a bazzard. She didn't get out with her second shot and her third carried over the green from where she pitched back and holed a ten footer for a 5.

Mrs. Beard played a great shot from the trap and holed her putt for a three, gaining two strokes, which put her on even terms with Mrs. Flippen.

Easy for Today's Children To Break Into Big League

By HERB FINNEGAN

How easy it is to become a major leaguer today! How different 20 years ago!

In those dear dead days, one had to be the seventh son of a seventh son to get a trial with a big league club.

I can remember the pre-war Carrigan Sox when they took South only four outfielders—Speaker, Hooper, Lewis and Hendricksen—for four years running.

Not that they weren't good. They were too good. A feller just didn't have a chance with that type of material around. And there were no farm clubs then where a kid could start.

Ask Pie Traynor sometime how the post-war Sox tossed him around and then out of Fenway Park.

But it isn't that way today. Far different!

NEIL MAHONEY

Today all a kid needs is a letter of recommendation from any responsible person to get a trial in the Sox matutinal kindergarten at Fenway Park. And it isn't much different in any other major league city.

The big leagues are crying for talent today. They had too much of it 20 years back.

Neil Mahoney, quondam Northeastern captain and Harwich manager, is the directing genius of the Sox kindergarten. He has a class out there each morning from 10:30 to 12:30. Some of the candidates are hopeless; some promising. But all get an even shake.

Here's the list of kids with whom Mahoney is working currently:

Steve De Cubellis, catcher, Providence; Kenneth Chapman, shortstop, Mansfield; Paul Whelan, catcher, Holliston; John Thompson, pitcher, Boston; Harold Hickman, pitcher, Brighton; Barnard Fallis, pitcher, Brighton; Joseph Sheehan, infielder, Cambridge; Edward Mulhern, pitcher, Cambridge; Joe Walsh, pitcher, Brookline; Jerry Feragano, infielder, Revere; Edward Unkuski, pitcher, East Providence; Joseph Jardule, pitcher, Ipswich; Guido Nollo, pitcher, Providence; Chet Knowlton, pitcher, Revere; Irvin Hogarat, outfielder, West Roxbury; Olympic F. Rizzo, pitcher, Boston; Roy Williams, first baseman, Dorchester; Herbert Gyer, first baseman, South Portland, Me.; Vernon Leavitt, pitcher, Limestone, Me.

NEIL MAHONEY

Neil has given up his Cape League post and will work daily with the kids until September.

HONOR PUPILS

He's a pretty thorough worker. He's been around a long time, and he knows a ball player when he sees one.

Right now he points with pride to John Thompson, a six-foot left handed pitcher. The kid is twirling for a Park League club, and when Billy Evans comes to town, he may be sent out to one of the Sox farms. He seems good enough.

Other students on the honor roll are Steve De Cubellis, a catcher from Providence; Kenneth Chapman, shortstop from Mansfield High; Joe Walsh, six-foot right-hander who twirled for Huntington School this spring; Paul Whelan, 20-year-old catcher from Holliston.

Neil tries to keep his classes down to 15 men per session. In this way he can give each one individual attention. He carries a note book around with him, jotting down "Too small" against this name, "Deadhead" against that, etc.

If a kid fails to show anything after a week or two, Neil weeds him out tactfully to make room for somebody else.

He gets some of his more promising pupils jobs with Park League nines; others he sends to Bill Barrett in the Northern League. He already has sent two to the Sox farm at Rocky Mount, N. C.

GOOD OLD JOHN-JOE

"Get 'em when they're young," is the Sox motto. They're living up to it all right, and giving them good instruction gratis to boot.

But it strikes me that the talent with an exception here and there, isn't as plentiful, or as gifted as it was 20 years back, when every lad in the village was playing ball morning, noon and night.

I'd like to have seen some of our gang given free instructions by big league clubs and a chance to join their farm systems.

If they did, I'd bet you'd be seeing names like John-Joe McHugh and Ed Driscoll enshrined at Cooperstown today.
